

None Reply To Activities Questionnaires

Deadline Imminent Stresses Hooppaw

• NO REPLIES to questionnaires sent out last week to all organization heads have been returned yet, according to Vivianne Hooppaw, activities director of the Student Council, by whom a survey of campus groups is being made.

Deadline for filing the completed questionnaires, sent out last Monday, is November 17, and any organization which has not submitted the required information by that date will automatically be suspended as an active campus group and denied rights and privileges of University activities, including the use of Student Council funds and University buildings, equipment, and name.

Organizations, which, for any reason, did not receive the activities directors' letter are nevertheless required to submit the information about themselves, Miss Hooppaw stressed, but added that this did not include medical school organizations.

These groups, which despite the ruling made by President Cloyd Heck Marvin last year guaranteeing the Student Council's control over all student organizations, whether in the undergraduate or professional schools, failed to reply to the questionnaire sent out, and were considered by the present activities director "not worth fighting over."

The engineering and law school groups, which cooperated last year, are expected, however, to submit the filled questionnaires.

Due to war casualties of activities, and the rapid turn-over of activities personnel, the survey of campus groups is to be conducted every semester, not bi-annually as previously. Information included in the questionnaires will be names of members, names and addresses of officers, purposes, faculty advisors and other data.

Male Greeks Keep Rush Season Going

• LATE RETURNS from the Fall fraternity rushing season, which officially closed Sunday, October 17, have been trickling in during the past week. At this date with the Sigma Nu and Theta Delta Chi fraternities still to report their results, 52 of the 58 men who originally balloted, have been pledged.

Sigma Chi has added Paul Heron and John Stimac to its pledge class, bringing its total to 11. Acacia has pledged Gary Arkoian and Gordon Banerian, while Sigma Alpha Epsilon increased its lead over second place Phi Sigma Kappa with respect to the size of the pledge class, by putting a pin on Ed Fisher. The SAE's now have 23 new men.

Mortar Boards To Apple Polish

• MORTAR BOARD, senior honorary for women, will sponsor the first of a series of "apple-polishing" luncheons tomorrow at 12:30 in Columbian House. Tickets for the affair, now available through any member of the organization, are 35 cents.

These noontime gatherings, a long-time tradition, were discontinued last year due to the exigencies of sugar, coffee and food rationing, but feeling that such a long-standing custom should not be allowed to go by the boards, this year's membership has decided to revive the affair.

The luncheons are planned to give students a chance to meet their professors in an informal and social atmosphere, away from the restraint and dignity of the classroom. The first luncheon is designed to introduce and honor the members of the Social Science departments.

Members of the History, Psychology, Economics, Sociology, and Political Science Departments have all been invited. The following is a list of those members who have thus far consented to attend: Lowell J. Ragatz, Elmer Kayser, Alva Curtis Wilgus, John P. Foley, Thelma Hunt, Charles Metzner, Peyton Hylard Kerr, William C. Johnstone, John A. Tillema, and Warren Reed West.

Members of Mortar Board for this year are: Betty Munson, Eileen Shanahan, Mildred Blevins, Pat Orr, Jessma Oslin, Patti Moore, and Barbara Simona.

Readers, 'Tis Sad; Hatchet Goes Tab

• TO STATE the obvious, The Hatchet has shrunk. The move was brought about by a number of circumstances, heading which are the newsprint shortage, the lack of news on the campus at the moment, and lack of local and national advertising, which used to go a long way toward paying for the paper.

The hope that the faculty and student body will stick with us while some necessary experimentation is made is high in the minds of the staff. We expect to put out a good tabloid. Although the body is changed, the spirit of The Hatchet remains.

Book Exchange Finishes Payoff

• THE STUDENT Book Exchange, now engaged in paying off students, still has to deal with some 150 people who may turn in their slips and get either money or their books back.

$230 which remains will be returned at the Book Exchange tomorrow through Saturday between 12 and 1:30 p.m. and 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Directors of the Book Exchange this year were Maybelle Hughes and Jimmy Huddleston, assisted by various members of the Colonial Campus Club.

KKG's Lead Grade List

• ACACIA FRATERNITY and Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority led all other Greek groups in scholarship, according to figures released by Registrar Fred E. Nessell.

The Acacians acquired a 2.84 average and Kappa Kappa Gamma an average of 2.88 for the semester February to June, 1943. Five sororities ranked above the average of women students, while five organizations fell below that mark. Only three men's groups surpassed the men's average, in comparison with nine from the term September to June, 1942.

The ratings are:

Sorority	Members	Average
Kappa Kappa Gamma	47	2.88

Faculty Asks Liberal Arts Investigation

Taylor Heads Arts Committee

• A CENSUS OF combined opinions of students and faculty on liberal arts instruction during and after the war is now being taken, Professor James Taylor, chairman of the Arts Committee, announced at the first meeting of the group last Wednesday.

The newly formed, seven-man committee, named by Dr. Christopher Garnett, Dean of Columbian College, has been set up to study the problem of the nature and function of a liberal arts education now and after the war and to make specific recommendations as to how Columbian College can best serve to promote this kind of education.

Each faculty member will be asked to submit a statement in writing of his conception of a liberal arts education and any concrete suggestions he may have on the subject.

It was also voted by the committee to ask the executive officers of the various departments of Columbian College to consult with major and graduate students on the problem.

In this way the committee hopes to get a cross-section of the opinions of all members of the University—both faculty and students. The ideas will be discussed, weighed, and utilized in a manner most useful to the University at large.

ZTA's Sponsor Local Blood Drive Starting Nov. 3

• IN ANSWER TO an urgent call of the Red Cross for blood to meet the needs of the Army and Navy for 4,000,000 pints of blood this year, Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority has called on all students and faculty members to donate a pint of blood to the nation-wide drive to secure much-needed plasma.

Next week they will begin a campaign which will last from Wednesday, November 3 until November 9 to enlist the cooperation of the university. A registration table will be set up in the Student Club from 12:15 to 1:30, and from 4:45 to 6:15, November 3, 4, 5, 8, and 9 for students and faculty members to sign up.

At the registration table donors may also secure additional information about donations. Arrangements are being made for many of the donors to be taken to the donor center in the Acacia Building 51 Louisiana Avenue, NW, by mobile unit.

Any would-be donor who cannot go at the time the Mobile Unit will leave can give blood at the Center when ever convenient.

Margaret Montgomery and Virginia Jones, members of the sorority who are in charge of the drive, stated that they believe that the University will go all out for this drive and respond wholeheartedly to the Red Cross request.

Publications Group Will Meet Thursday

• THE COMMITTEE on Publications will meet Thursday to decide the fate of the Cherry Tree, The Mecheleiv, engineering publication, and to discuss Hatchet problems, according to Professor Ernest E. Shepherd, chairman of the committee.

Confirmation of the Cherry Tree editor's appointment in the event its publication is continued, and rulings regarding the engineering bi-weekly will come from the meeting. Discussion regarding appointment of Hatchet sub-editors, changes in the Hatchet's constitution, and the effect of the reduction of the size of the paper is expected.

Dean Frederick Feiker Announces Sponsorship Of New Engineering Management Society

Administration Students Eligible

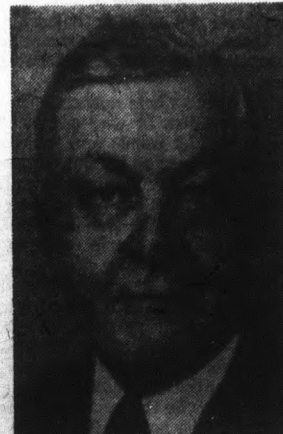

• PLANS TO form a University chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management, national professional management organization, have been announced by Faculty Adviser Frederick M. Feiker, Dean of Engineering.

First meeting of the society's new chapter is tentatively scheduled for Thursday, November 4, in the School of Engineering.

Students in the Schools of Engineering or Business Administration, and the University Division, who are interested in the field of scientific management relating to Accounting, Business Administration, Economics, Engineering, Law, and Statistics have been invited by Dean Feiker to become charter members of the new group.

Scope of the society embraces such management functions as public relations, labor relations, sales engineering, cost and budget control, factory and office layout, tooling, and merchandising.

The field of Business Engineering should not be confused with Mechanical, Civil, or Electrical Engineering. Rather, it is considered a distinct engineering science having many technical aspects common to it and to no other engineering field.

Charter Members Meet Next Week

Specific functions of the society are concerned with application of techniques of scientific management. It serves to bridge the gap between the drafting table and the worker, the accounting room and the shop. It introduces into management practical application of academic progress in Psychology, Medicine, Economics, Sociology, and Engineering.

The organization of this group may be an opening step in the installation of a major in Engineering Management, Dean Feiker added. Plans for this move are, as yet, indefinite, but the Dean stated that he has had hopes for some time.

With the end of expanding the Engineering School to include this new field, a survey of the courses offered in the subject by all schools which have an accredited major in Engineering Management was made by former Hatchet editor, and engineering major Murray Berdick two years ago

Yea Buff and Blue

• THE SUCCESS of the past two University social functions, the all-U informal dance and the Buff 'n' Blue, has been astounding when the flop of a Freshman Mixer which started out the social calendar is recalled.

And The Hatchet is pleased, indeed, to find that it's doleful prophecy about what might happen to school functions this year is not being fulfilled.

It is, we think, the support of the Student Council members themselves which has made these affairs successful. Council office holders have gotten out and really worked.

After all, the real test of whether a thing is worthwhile is whether those who are concerned with it believe in it. Apparently the Student Council thinks that its dances are worth attending, and, from what we've seen, we agree.

Who Is to Choose?

• HOW FAR the faculty and administration committee which will draw up the final list will see fit to follow The Hatchet's suggestions for the Collegiate Who's Who is, so far, unknown—the group hasn't met as yet. But we hope that the students have gotten some voice in this matter by the fact that The Hatchet was asked to submit a list of nominees.

Mr. Nessell, who heads the committee, was spurred to action by a Hatchet editorial of last year, which asked for student participation; this is our public thank-you to the Registrar. And now that Mr. Nessell has shown himself open to suggestion (which is true of too few of our overlords), we'd like to point out some other flaws which could be eliminated.

Not only the students included in Who's Who, but those who make up the Hall of Fame and the recipients of various awards given at Class Night are chosen by unknown faculty committees, appointed by the President of the University. Some of their choices, that of outstanding senior man in particular, for some reason, have repeatedly been open to criticism.

From this history, two things show up: a) if the faculty and administration are so unaware of just who are the campus leaders, they should have the advice of some students on the matter; b) the names of the committee members who make these selections should be made known.

Regarding the latter point, Mr. Nessell, who heads all such groups, stated that the committees varied from year to year, and even from award to award, and added that they are not, in all cases, even exclusively made up of University personnel, but that sometimes persons around the city are asked for their opinions. Regarding student voice in the matter, Mr. Nessell revealed that he sometimes stopped students at random on campus to ask their opinions of "leaders."

The practice of asking a cross section of students about who deserves awards is debatable. Undoubtedly almost all students who have been around the University any length of time would be able to tell who the star athletes were, for example, but the people who do superb jobs in activities, without fanfare, without trying to take credit for it, are sometimes almost completely unknown to the ordinary student. These are just the students who should be recognized.

The Hatchet therefore makes this proposal: Let a group of students, well acquainted with all phases of campus activities, assist the faculty and administration in selecting persons for the various honors awarded. A well-rounded group might consist of a member of the Student Council, of ODK, of Mortar Board, and of The Hatchet staff.

And if the policy of letting faculty and administration members select the recipients, unadvised, is continued, the policy of keeping their names secret, in courtesy, ought to be discontinued.

Hatchet Agrees With ACP Views on Editors

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

• PROFS CAN SIT crosslegged on the top of a desk; dean's list students can let down their guard; student body presidents can fraternize with the masses.

Only an editor is required to be pontifical always.

Only an editor is supposed to know everything that happens, so it is taken for granted that he already knows it, and nobody ever tells him anything; only an editor is supposed to keep an open mind always, and at the same time to make snap decisions for each political impasse; only an editor is required to keep his nose out of politics, meanwhile keeping tab on the strength of each separate line-up.

Profs have their apple-polishers who ask questions after class; dean's list students get their quarterly reports; student body presidents hear quarterly reports; student body presidents hear complaints in SEB meetings.

Only an editor has to guess.

Only an editor has to grope blindly along, trying to put out a paper for a student body who will talk only behind his back, who will never tell him what they like or don't like, who will squawk audibly only when they are mentally and irreparably wounded.

Profs have the satisfaction of seeing their teachings put into practice; dean's list students are an inspiration to their successors; student body presidents can point with pride at year's end to long rows of achievements.

Only an editor never accomplishes anything.

Only an editor has to endure the spectacle of 599 of his 600 loyal readers, each and every week, turning immediately on receipt of the paper to the Finger of Scorn, ignoring everything else in the issue; to find the lay-outs on which he and his staff have spent hours of work completely unappreciated; to find his editorial campaigns which he has planned for months, which are his only method of criticism of his school and of society, coldly ignored.

And, when all's said and done, only an editor has the satisfaction of knowing that his thousand words a week are written down in letters that can never be erased; of feeling something in a way that must have immediate and lasting effect; of knowing that, if he knew how to use it, he has the whole state for his audience; of seeing that he is doing a job for the students which no one else could do in quite the same way; and last but not least, of being sure of a staff that, no matter how much he is forced to abuse them, overwork them, deny them any reward for their work, will be driven back for more by pure love of liberty effort. Only an editor would gripe about it.

Other Editors Say

Civilians Win Wars, Says College Weekly

Continuing a policy begun in the first issue this year the Editor of the Hatchet is reprinting each week in this space an outstanding article from some other college paper. This week's editorial is from the Columns of the St. Bona Venture of St. Bonaventure College, New York.

• THIS WEEK AS we celebrate the anniversary of the discovery of America, it seems fitting to pay tribute to the American spirit.

After four years of war, the German Army is a formidable fighting force. This, it is only fair to our soldiers and our Allies to admit. All of which reflects a nation which has subordinated everything to war. It almost seems that no one could survive in the German state who puts the love of mankind or the love of God, the worship of truth or beauty, ahead of the art, science and worship of war. However, it is even quite possible that future students of military history will read the story of German tactics with almost edification. But they will note that success came just so near, time after time, and was never finally grasped. The Germans could win victories, but not the war. One enemy beaten down, another rose. To the Nazis it may seem that a kind of Fatalism followed them. They were like mountain climbers who could surmount one ridge, but beyond it were always others.

The solution to the whole matter is, however, that nations which specialize in war can not win them. Wars today are won by people and nations who hate war, whose generals are the public's servants, not its masters, whose soldiers are civilians in uniform. These soldiers do not love battle, but are anxious to end the war and return home. The thunder and roaring of their guns is the voice of people outraged by having to go to war.

Wars today are won by people who are tired of them, who want to get on with their work, and raise their children in peace. They alone have the strength, the fury and the ultimate wisdom for victory. They make technical mistakes, but they never make the final mistake of accepting defeat. The strength of militarist nations may be the greatest at the beginning but that of peace-loving nations is greatest at the end.

In the end the very genius of the professional militarists only exacts a more terrible price from their countrymen. They win tactical victories and in so doing raise up a force against them which destroys them and those they rule. They that take the sword shall perish by it.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Since our University has decided to discontinue sending The Hatchet to our men in uniform, I suggest that the fraternities and engineering societies undertake at their own expense to send the paper to their members now serving in the four corners of the earth so that we at home can enjoy the privileges as free people.

Such an act would do much toward maintaining the morale of our men. I have received letters from many men in uniform who requested me to send the paper to them.

Sincerely,
John Paraskevas

To the Editor:

I would like to bring to the attention of the students, particularly the 200-odd who attended the Buff and Blue dance last Friday, the fact that tipping of the waiters at the B & B is not only permissible but is encouraged. It seems amazing that they should have to be told this.

I presume that most of the dancers were under the impression that tipping was not done because the waiters were students and were not professional in the true sense of the world. It is true that these men do not do this for a living. But it is also true that they were not out there for their health. No one would think of going to a night club for an evening without tipping the waiter generously. Why should it be any different at the University?

Just for the record, let it be known that one man worked all evening and received 20 cents tip (total). The man with whom the revelers were most beneficent received 50 cents. I think it's a shame.

Many GW Students Live At International House

• STUDENTS of GEORGE Washington University, American, Korean, Chinese, German, Panamanian, Turkish, and Puerto Rican, are among a cosmopolitan group who are participating in a working experiment in international living. They are part of a household composed of representatives from almost every corner of the world, but at 1708 New Hampshire Avenue, the International Student House, 20 men and women are adjusting radically different ways of life into a harmonious whole.

The membership of this cosmopolitan organization is composed of students from all the universities and colleges of the city, and is drawn from European refugees, Asiatic and Latin scholars, with judicious admixture of American students for spice.

The International House serves not only as a residence for the men and women who live in it, but it is the focal point for the social activities for a large segment of the foreign student population of Washington and the surrounding territory. The purpose of the organization is to foster better understanding by these young representatives of all nations of each other and of the nation which has offered many of them a sanctuary when they had no other place to go.

An invitation extended by Mrs. Arthur Hummel, an American woman who had long resided abroad, to all foreign students in the Capital was the impetus which led to the formation of the group. For two years the original group held social gatherings at various homes, during which time a desire for a permanent home of its home became a definite goal.

A building was given to the group by the American Friends' Service Committee, which had received it from Mrs. Bancroft Davis. The house has, since its beginning, been under the management of a house director, the first, Mrs. Grace Lowry, having served from 1936 until this spring, when the present director, Mrs. Edith T. Maul, took charge. These ladies have had the job of counseling this heterogeneous gathering.

In order to extend the experience of living in this unique residence, the group has set up certain limitations upon the residents. Sixteen foreign students are allowed a maximum of two years' residence in the house, while four Americans are permitted to live in the house for one year only.

The officers for the coming year were elected last Sunday night, and two current and one former George Washington student were among them. The vice-president, Raymond Younf, is a Chinese student of the University; the corresponding secretary, Pearl Kim, is a G. W. student from Korea; the only American member of the executive committee is Ann Williams, who was in school here last year. The president of this cosmopolite body is Aubrey Jacobs, who comes from Jamaica; the recording secretary is Gaston Robillard, a French Canadian.

About 20 per cent of the present membership is composed of G. W.'s. These include Ben Munson of the medical school; Carola Rosenthal, a German student active in WAA; Ricardo Vos, a pre-med from Panama; Raoul Vizcarrondo, from Puerto Rico; Warrant Officer David Zussman of the Navy, and Sgt. Bill Brudon, stationed at the Army Medical Center. Two faculty members are also members of the group: Dr. Myer Stohr of the Medical School, and Eddie Wade, a Chinese, of the Pharmacy Department.

Vet Students Elect Noble As President

First Group of Kind Organizes Club Here

By EILEEN SHANAHAN

• WE'RE NOT anything but students," said Ben Noble, president of the Student Veterans of World War II, at the University, first organization of its kind, so far as is known.

The group consists of eight men whose job at the University is tough, but eight men who consider themselves lucky to be back at home, safe and comparatively sound, lucky to be given a chance to win their place in the world, and to be given by Uncle Sam the training and education which will enable them to go into new jobs and do them as well as, "but more likely much better than," the old ones. They have formed a club to try and help each other toward rehabilitation.

These men, who have vocational disabilities, injuries which will not permit them to return to their former jobs, are being sent to the University by the government, under the Veterans Administration, and are studying subjects of their own choice.

"It is really a job that we have to do here," Noble said. "In the opinion of the people at the Veterans Administration, we have the background and ability to finish. They can't make mistakes and we can't fail."

"We organized because we have problems to face that the other students don't have. Some of us know languages, others math, and we figured we could help each other. Not only that, but we've been out of school two to twelve years, and that hurts."

The group of veterans of this war, whose ages range from 21 to 30 met early this month and decided to band into a formal organization. They are: Ben Noble, ex-Marine taking pre-legal work; Elmo Keel, formerly a flight engineer; Davis Harris, Marine radio operator; Charles Harrison, who served in the Navy; John Ford Jr., a former sailor, all of whom are studying engineering; Douglas Coon, ex-Army Signal Corpsman; Joe Holtzman, Army Transport Division, and A. F. Mazikas, ex-Marine, all of whom are taking accounting and business administration.

The club, which holds formal meetings every Tuesday evening, has been promised the use of a furnished room by the University, working in cooperation with the Veterans Administration.

"It is hard to get back into the swing of things, but our government is going to give us an arm to replace the one we lost, a leg to stand on, an eye to see with—not a corporate organ, no flesh, no blood, no muscle—but a complementary organ that will compensate for our corporal loss."

Songsters Plan First Concert

• REHEARSING FOR their first major concert of the year, the University Glee Club has begun practice on several new numbers including C. R. Hawley's Christmas Cantata "The Christ Child."

A concert, tentatively scheduled for the second week in November, is being prepared for the Chevy Chase Junior College in nearby Maryland. The entire Men's Club and a selected group from the Women's Club will participate.

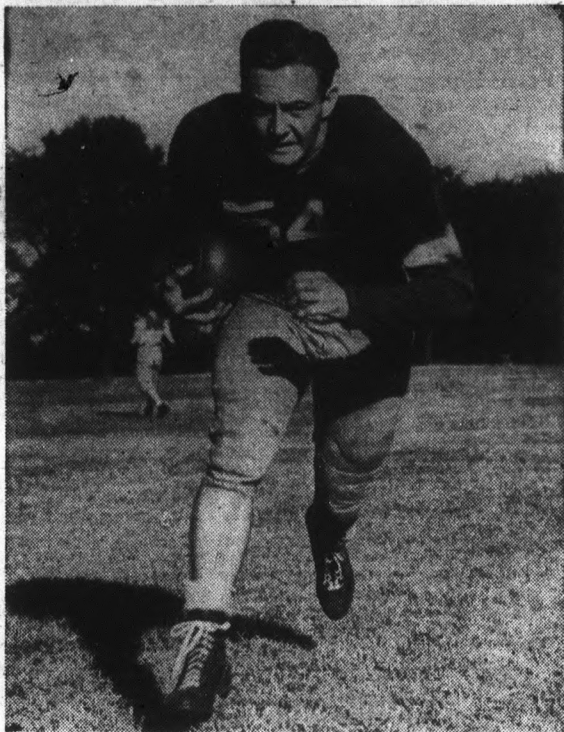

Within the past two weeks the Men's Club has been steadily increasing in size, boasting an addition of five basses, three second tenors, and five baritone. The Women's Club, now up to strength, continues rehearsals on Thursday and Saturday at noon while the men meet at 8:00 p. m. Both groups rehearse in Studio A of the Lisner Auditorium.

French Club Elects

• THE FRENCH Club elected new officers at its first fall meeting Thursday in Columbian House. Elizabeth Banigan was elected President, Jane Ling, Vice-President, Mary Davis, Secretary, Charles Daubaup, Social Chairman.

Ex-Buffermen Aid Penn State Steamroller Against Md. U.

TRIPLE THREAT—Jimmy Graham, 170-pound backfield ace, and two-year letterman at the University. He is now in the Marines and an important cog in the Penn State team which defeated Maryland U. Saturday.

• A COLONIAL football fan who didn't know that the Buff and Blue had concluded gridiron activity for the duration would have been hard put to believe his own eyes last Saturday.

No less than four ex-University men, three linemen and a back, played big parts in Penn State's 45-0 rout of Maryland at College Park.

Jim Graham, star punter, passer and runner for Coaches Bill Reinhardt and Johnny Baker during his three years here as a regular, did not score but ran the Terps ragged during most of the first half, being ejected from the premises after a slight argument. A big Old Liner kept his fist in Jimmy's mouth a little longer than was necessary following a tackle and Jimmy remonstrated with him.

Athletic relations have not been severed.

Justifying his rating as the finest Sophomore end in the Southern Conference last year, Ed Czekaj kicked two extra points, recovered a fumble to set up the first Nittany Lion tally. He snagged a long pass just after the third period began that was good for 35 yards.

Dan Ross, who may be more recognizable as Dan Rosa, played through four years in high school without ever being on a losing team. He wasn't quite able to maintain that pace at George Washington, but he has made himself a tremendous part of the Lion line that took no foolishness from the rampant Naval Middles and smashed the Terps remorselessly back time after time.

Playing right next to Ross was his Colonial buddy, Ted Hapanowicz, left tackle, who helped mightily in keeping the Marylanders deep in their own territory most of the time and never beyond their 44 yard line. Besides playing football here, Ted was very active in intramural activities, specializing in basketball.

Paul Weber, another ex-Buff halfback, is also on the Penn State squad but at present is scholastically ineligible to play.

GWARO Plans Service Party

• THE GEORGE Washington Athletic Recreation Organization, newly sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, will hold a Sports Nite for USO servicemen Friday, from 7:30 to 10:00 p. m. in the University gymnasium.

The WAA Board and GWARO Committee, composed of Margaret Lynn, Chairman, Elaine Smith and Marion Montague, will be hostesses to the servicemen. Basketball games, badminton sets, and archery contests are the scheduled sports events for the evening.

Miss Gretchen Feiker, present head of USO at the YWCA, spoke yesterday at a meeting in Columbian House on The Need for Recreation Among Servicemen in the District. Miss Feiker, former president of WAA, is the daughter of Frederick Morris Feiker, Dean of the School of Engineering.

Campus Sports

Men's Intramural Sport Program Now Underway

• THE INTRAMURAL sports program has at last gotten under way. Enrollment during the past week has been improved to the point that the program went under way on schedual.

The touch football league started its activities on Monday. The various football teams are composed of seven man squads which play on the Lincoln Memorial athletic grounds. Bill Meyers says that enrollment in intramural football is still open for a limited number of applicants.

Bill Meyers has this to say about the intramural sports program. "We are appealing especially to the social organizations for support of our athletic program. If there is enough support from the fraternities we will form a separate interfraternity football league."

Meyers continued with this appeal to the student body. "We are especially interested in the students who want to enroll in the following sports: handball, badminton, table tennis, fencing, volleyball and swimming. These activities we want to stress because of the available equipment."

"In the required physical education department," he added, "We now have the scores and the results of the physical aptitude tests and by the end of the week they will be posted on the bulletin board."

Four Former GW Athletes Graduate From Marine OCS

• FOUR UNIVERSITY alumni, former gridiron and basketball stars, were graduated last week from the Marine Corps OCS at Quantico, Virginia, as Second Lieutenants.

The four, Joey Gallagher, John Koniszewski, Enrico Seeno and Jack Fitzgerald, enlisted in the Marine Corps Reserve while students in the University. Upon graduation last June they were sent to Parris Island, South Carolina, for boot training, and then to Quantico for OCS.

Joe Gallagher, a local D. C. lad, was a scholarship student from St. John's College, and majored in Physical Education. He played varsity basketball for three years, was captain of the team last year which won the Southern Conference Tournament at Raleigh, North Carolina.

John Koniszewski, Pennsylvania resident, is a former baseball, basketball and football star, winner of nine Varsity letters, and All-Southern Conference center on last year's basketball "dream" team. Elected to ODK in his Senior year, he was an outstanding figure on Campus.

Enrico Seeno, another Pennsylvanian, was former Assistant Director of Intramural Athletics, and guard on the football team for two years. He also held the position of captain of the "Red-Tops," Intramural basketball champs last year.

Jack Fitzgerald, former baseball star, played third base and held the batting title on the baseball team last year. A member of the basketball squad for three years, he was a valuable utility man.

Hockey Head Names Class Team Leaders

• CLASS MANAGERS for hockey have been appointed according to Nora Weir, general hockey manager.

They are: Barbara Sauber, and Dottie Lee Miller, freshmen, Jeanne Reed, and Ann Thayer, sophomores, Catherine Prentiss, junior, and Pat Orr, senior.

Intra-section playoffs started yesterday, and plans for meets with Hood and other colleges are under way, it was revealed.

With the formation of the largest riding class in University completed, plans for a competitive demonstration to be held at the end of the present athletic season will be announced soon, riding head Mercedes Smith said this week.

Touche Aces List Business Meet Friday

Harvest Moon Ball Set for November 18; Buff and Blue Dance Is Sell Out Success

November Dance Replaces Former 'Victory' Affair

● A HARVEST Moon Ball, replacing the annual Victory Ball, will be held November 18, 1943. Time, 9-1; place, Wardman Park Hotel; music, one of Jack Morton's bands.

This dance, one of the series that is sponsored by the Student Council, will be informal. Tickets are $1.65.

Pauline Gish is in charge of publicity, assisted by Lloyd Iddings. Vivianne Hooppaw and Ted Rommel are special assistants.

Successful at the previous dances of the semester, the Date Bureau will again be operative. It will accept applications and provide dates in the same manner as before. All those who are still unorientated in the University are urged to avail themselves of its facilities.

The various fraternities and sororities of the University are requested to submit the names of their alumnae and alumni who are in Washington and may be willing to come.

The Victory Ball was formerly held on the eve of the Georgetown-George Washington game. The students and athletes of both schools were invited. The dance, however, gradually became known as the Moral Victory as the University's triumphs became more and more infrequent.

Ex-Coeds Get WASP Wings; Boys Send News

● AMID THE crescendo of Army planes warming their motors on the line, Florence J. Niemiec, a member of class number six of WASPs (Women's Airforce Service Pilots), received her wings at the school's brief graduation ceremonies.

Miss Niemiec, a former University student, has been participating in various phases of aeronautics for the past several years.

Another alumna, Pvt. Hazel Spear Beall, is taking basic training at the Third WAC Training Center at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. Private Beall is a member of Sigma Sigma Sorority and Sigma Tau Delta Fraternity.

First Lt. Ralph L. Tarbett, Sanitary Corps, who received his Bachelor of Civil Engineering Degree from the University, recently graduated from the Medical Field Service School at Carlisle Barracks, Pennsylvania.

Naval Aviation Cadet John H. Jaeschke Jr., who attended the University, is now taking primary flight training at Moffett Field, California.

Lt. Comdr. Frank L. Barrows, son of Mrs. Vinnie Barrows, was lately awarded the Navy Silver Star for "gallantry and intrepidity."

From Alaska comes news that W. Lawrence Dean Jr. has been promoted to petty officer third class in the Naval Reserve. Dean studied engineering at the University and subsequently was appointed as an engineer draftsman for the District Government.

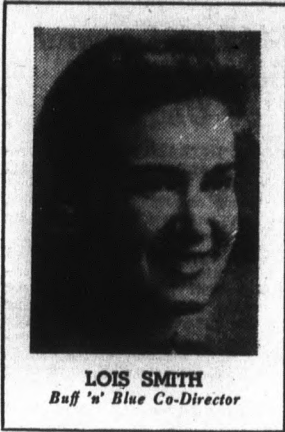

International Students Meet Tomorrow Night

● INTERNATIONAL Student Society will hold its first meeting of the year tomorrow night at 8:15 in International House at 2121 G Street NW, according to an announcement by Prof. Alan Delbert, advisor to the organization.

Aune Kangas, president of the society last year, will preside.

An election of new officers and discussion of plans for the coming year are scheduled for the meeting.

Professor Delbert stated that the house is now in process of being "refurnished." It will probably be ready for the meeting Wednesday night, he added. Professor Delbert also announced that the series of teas will begin again in November.

LOIS SMITH
Buff 'n' Blue Co-Director

Jr. Panhel Names Phyllis Hall Prexy

● JUNIOR PAN-HEL held its first meeting last Wednesday and elected Phyllis Hall, Delta Zeta, president. Others elected were: Ellen Liska, Kappa Delta, vice-president, and Bernice Green, Phi Sigma Sigma, treasurer.

All further meetings will be held at the Columbian House on Wednesday at noon.

Plans are being made for the Goat Show, which will be held December 10. Jeanne Simpson, ADPI, was appointed chairman. Other projects for service in the war effort are being planned.

Dry Night Club Show Features Pern Henniger

● COUPLES WERE being turned away at the door half an hour after the dance started—and those inside agreed that the ones who hadn't bought tickets ahead of time to assure themselves tables were missing something.

Friday night's Buff 'n' Blue, the first of the season, was a sellout and a success.

Music was furnished by Bob Lee's Aristocrats, and the floor show of the "dry-night-club" was highlighted by the presence of a professional magician, Pern Henniger, a former University student. Cokes, as usual, were on sale, and served by waiters.

Charles Shinn, co-director of the Buff 'n' Blue "emceed" the proceedings, aided behind the scenes by co-director Lois Smith.

A "chalk talk" by artist-emcee Charlie Shinn was another highlight. Two songs were sung by soprano Josephine Forbes, accompanied by Morton Steinberg. Jesse Ridgeway soloed on the piano with "Malaguena." Eugene Miller, who lent comic relief as a bewildered freshman, completed the list of entertainment.

An unexpected addition to the program was Lt. Frank Etzler, well-known Kappa Sig "boogie-woogie" artist, who was discovered in the audience by old admirers of his ivory-tickling and pressed into a guest performance.

Kayser Addresses Alumni Group At Luncheon

● DEAN ELMER L. Kayser was guest of honor and speaker at a luncheon of the University's Chicago Alumni Club and the Chicago Bar Association.

In his address Dean Kayser appealed for realistic attitudes in America as the coming conferences with Soviet Russia draw closer. He designated the four freedoms as reasons for fighting this war. "We are fighting to make America safe," he said.

Dean Kayser, noted as a commentator and analyst of European affairs, told the alumni that this country is fighting for practical things, and arrangements with Great Britain and Russia should assure definite understandings, such as the continuance of the Iceland base for protection of Chicago and Detroit, and maintenance of Caribbean bases.

World bases were demanded for America's air power, described as the most powerful in the world, and safe sea lanes for the country's immense new merchant marine, the dean said, must be assured in any international agreements.

Pharmacy School Still Carries On

● DESPITE LOSSES of Dean William Briggs to the Navy, Dr. Charles Bliven to the Maritime Commission, and Dr. Lea Gene Gramling to the Army, the University's College of Pharmacy still manages to carry on its ever increasingly important program under the direction of Dr. Lloyd Hazelton, acting executive officer.

Contrary to current rumors on the campus that the Pharmacy School is no longer a functioning college of the University, it is a fact that not a single requirement has been dropped.
